MESSAGE FROM FR. MANO

Last Tuesday, we had Gospel from Luke that says, “But as to what is within, give alms, and behold, everything will be clean for you.” I preached about it that day. Later while I was pondering about it, some more reflections came to my mind. I thought of sharing with you.

Jesus speaks these words while challenging the Pharisees, who were very careful about external religious observances but often neglected the interior condition of their hearts. They paid attention to ritual cleanliness, but Jesus wanted them to understand that true holiness is not simply about appearing clean before others; it is about becoming clean within, before God.

Do you have your favorite coffee cup? Imagine that you have a beautiful coffee cup. Everyone admires it. But when you look inside, you discover that inside is dirty. Would you drink from it? The outside may be beautiful, but what is inside makes it unfit for drinking.

Jesus is teaching us something similar about the human heart. We can look respectable, attend Mass, pray the Rosary, wear religious symbols, and speak beautifully about God. These are good things. But if our hearts are filled with greed, jealousy, resentment, selfishness, pride, and indifference toward people who suffer, something essential is missing. God does not want merely to polish our appearance. He wants to transform our hearts.

Jesus does not simply say, “Look inside yourself and become a better person.” He says, in effect, let what is within you become an expression of generosity toward others. Almsgiving means more than putting money into a poor person's hand. It means allowing God's love to move us beyond ourselves. When we see someone hungry, we share our food. When someone is lonely, we offer our time. When someone is struggling, we help without expecting repayment.

Why is this important? Because generosity exposes and challenges the selfishness that can hide inside us. When we give sincerely, we learn to loosen our grip on possessions, comfort, pride, and self-interest. Jesus is not saying that donating money automatically erases every sin or that external religious practices are unnecessary. He is calling for an interior conversion that becomes visible through love. Our hands reveal something about our hearts.

Consider these three questions: Is my faith changing my heart? Am I generous only when it is convenient? Is there a person God is asking me to love today?

A MONTHLY CATHOLIC APOLOGETICS HOUR

Did Jesus Found the Catholic Church?

Is Christianity about a relationship – or a religion?

Can one simply be spiritual, but not religious? Is organized religion inherently harmful? Do churches create unnecessary rules and divisions? Was the Catholic Church founded by the Emperor Constantine centuries after Jesus?

What exactly did Jesus mean when he said, "I will build my Church?" Did Jesus establish a visible, organized Church—or simply call individuals to follow Him? Is having a personal relationship with Jesus enough—or did He intend something more?

Did Jesus found a Church?

And if He did ... what happened to it?

Join us as we explore the question of whether Christianity is about a personal relationship or something more. We'll examine Jesus' promise to build His Church—and ask what that Church was meant to look like. People of all faiths (or none at all) are welcome to join.

We Celebrate 100 Years of World Mission Sunday!

This World Mission Sunday marks the 100th anniversary of its establishment by Pope Pius XI in 1926. This centenary is an opportunity to celebrate with renewed missionary zeal. Last year, Pope Leo XIV made an appeal to us in a personal video for World Mission Sunday. His request echoed around the world: "Please help me help missionaries everywhere." That's what World Mission Sunday does: it helps Pope Leo care for the 1,130 missionary dioceses and territories under his supervision through the Dicastery for Evangelization. We are all called to be a part of this missionary work, and we have a singular means to do so: World Mission Sunday. The second collection we take up today helps extend the Church's evangelization work to missionary lands where the Gospel is being proclaimed for the first time, as well as to places where the Church barely exists, or is too young, too persecuted, or too poor to sustain herself. Thank you for responding to Pope Leo's call to help him help missionaries everywhere!
